Thoughtful leadership takes responsibility for developing and maintaining an enabling culture

Creating and sustaining an enabling environment takes planning and hard work, and while all members must share responsibility, thoughtful leadership with an overview of everything is vital. Leaders help set the culture and values that a service works to, so when they participate in the day to day life of the service everyone can see them living the enabling environment values.

Good leadership helps create an active learning culture, including feedback and ideas from others to make everyone feel included
